Kobe beef

Emperor's Beef

Several years ago, I had the glorious experience of trying Kobe steak, the supremely tender and densely flavored Japanese beef. So when I heard there was a new steak house offering the pricey beef (usually $30-$45 an ounce), at $15 an ounce, I ran to check it out. Besides the handsome wainscoting and decorative gold plates, the Kobe beef (portions start at 3 ounces) at 212 was, indeed, the real deal. | 212 Steakhouse, 316 E. 53rd St., 212.858.0646
